

Queen Hatshepsut

Hello, my name is Queen Hatshepsut (Hot-chep-suit). I am a queen of Egypt who is remembered for bringing peace and prosperity to my people. I wore a fake beard and dressed like a pharaoh to gain respect. Unlike my father, Thutmose the First, I wanted to focus my attention on Egypt itself instead of increased military power. I restored temples and sent expeditions out to trade with other city-states. I had two obelisks erected in Karnack for the god Amon-Ra, which are still standing today.

Dress as the queen, with a crown and a lot of jewelry. Attach a long beard to your chin. Carry a picture of the two obelisks you had built.

*Walk Through The Ancient World © CWE, Inc.
www.californiaweekly.com*