

Punic Wars

The Punic Wars were a series of three wars from 264 to 149 BC between Rome and the people of Carthage. The Romans had to create a better navy to fight the Carthaginians, who were great fighters on the sea and controlled much of the Mediterranean.

Walk Through The Ancient World © CWE, Inc. www.californiaweekly.com