

Townshend Act

The Townshend (Town-zuhnd) Act was an act placed on the colonists shortly after the Stamp Act was overturned. These laws stated that the British had the right to tax the colonies.