

Republic

The Roman Republic was a form of government in which the people elected their leaders and voted on decisions made by the consuls and the Senate. The Roman Republic lasted from 509 to 46 BC and ended with the start of the Roman Empire.

Walk Through The Ancient World © CWE, Inc. www.californiaweekly.com